MEDIATION CV - 2016

Jonathan Dingle FRSA MCI Arb FSOM Barrister of the Middle Temple Joint Head of Chambers at 218 Strand

Jonathan Dingle is a leading barrister, mediator and internationally experienced arbitrator complimented as “inspiring”, “remarkable” and “incisive” in his work over three decades in many fields. At the Bar, he specialises in clinical negligence, personal injury, child and sexual abuse claims, and complex cases, often with a national or international dimension.

He is regarded as something of an institution in complex personal injury and clinical negligence dispute resolution. His more than 800 ADR cases have included varied disputes and issues, from the trivial to tragic deaths of children. His feedback from parties is “legendary”. In a recent NHS child death case, he was credited by all parties in the resolution of a very long running, difficult, and tragic matter. He is supported by a full time dispute resolution assistant who eases the path to arbitration and mediation.

Personal Injury Mediator of the Year in 2009/2010 he is shortlisted for the same award in 2016 - announcement due on 24th November 2016.

As a barrister, he practices from 218 Strand in London enjoying a strong portfolio of work with and head injury, psychological, psychiatric or abuse bias. He has a deserved reputation in military law. Called as a Barrister of the Middle Temple in 1986 following a distinguished career at sea in the Royal Navy working as a Commander with NATO navies, he later served on operational duties in the Gulf War before becoming a Judge Advocate.

As such he dealt with complex and challenging cases – working alone and as part of a team. In the MOD, he briefed ministers and heads of state, and ran a substantial range of sensitive projects, both led by and leading senior civil servants. He was fully deep vetted to the highest levels and retains the extended security clearance in his present part-time judicial appointment.

He entered private bar practice in 1996. He has built a reputation as a leading adviser, negotiator, mediator, and practitioner in complex and difficult cases – both in the UK and overseas. He is often instructed in clinical negligence claims, and wrote the ADR Chapter in Powers & Harris.

As a mediator, his work for more than a decade led to his appointment as Honorary Secretary of the United Kingdom’s Civil Mediation Council in 2003, a post which he held for eight years. He played a major role in influencing judges, practitioners, and stakeholders in previously intractable disputes.

He has led more than 200 mediation and arbitration training courses in Europe and internationally which have been universally praised. In doing so, he has already created a generation of mediators worldwide under the facilitative model. He has helped established associations worldwide. He is currently undertaking pro bono work establishing reconciliation processes in schools in South Africa where bullying, abuse and other issues are rife.

“Jonathan Dingle is widely regarded as the epitome of a modern international mediator who brings a relaxed style and a razor-sharp mind to every mediation, helping participants resolve disputes that seemed intractable”

He is also a member of a number of advisory groups and panels, has chaired inquiries and standards boards, and holds a part-time Judicial Appointment in the United Kingdom dealing with highly sensitive matters.

As an arbitrator, Jonathan chaired or coordinated a number of panels for the Chartered Institute in London for some years. In 2015 he was honoured with membership of the Association of Arbitrators of Southern Africa in recognition for his work in that country. Similar recognition was granted in India, in the Cayman Islands, and in the Bahamas.

Jonathan’s style is relatively informal but should not be mistaken for an absence of a fine seamanlike eye for detail, or a thorough grounding in procedure on which he is widely consulted. His arbitrations as a sole appointment generally proceed faster than the average. His awards are carefully constructed and clear to read – and generally quickly available.

Jonathan’s interests include his Morgan, exploring on a motorcycle, theatre and film, running and surfing. He is also a sometimes delighted and always an ever-optimistic West Bromwich Albion supporter. He is a founding Trustee of the Jeff Astle Foundation for brain injury in sport.
